Missing Cashier Is Said To Be In Chicago At The Present Time Hidden.

WARRANTS FOR VICE-PRESIDENT

Missing President It Is Said Cannot Be Found--Woman Supposed To Be Married To Him Is Still Missing, Though Partially Located.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, Aug. 9.—The Tribune says: Henry W. Hering, cashier of the Milwaukee Avenue State Bank is in Chicago. Hering was seen yesterday by a reporter. He declared his intention to give himself up to the police today. He admitted he had taken no part in the robbery of the bank. It is said Hering went up the lake Saturday for a brief rest, but returned Monday.
More Warrants.
Another warrant, charging the violation of the state banking laws was sworn out today for the arrest of Theodore Stensland, vice-president of the suspended bank. He will be arrested on this warrant today, according to the police.

LARGEST PICNIC; BREAKS RECORDS

FATHER MATTHEWS' T. A. & B. PICNIC, EDGERTON, SUCCESS.

NEARLY 5,000 ATTENDED

Thirty-nine Hundred Paid Admissions to the Grounds—Good Ball Game and Good Racing.

Edgerton again held a most successful T. A. & B. picnic Wednesday that in point of attendance and features presented broke all previous records. Rain in the afternoon spoiled the last three heats of the races and caused a postponement of the day was most enjoyable and the large crowds which came from all over the county for the occasion were more than satisfied with the entertainment offered them.

The entertainment offered the visitors were varied. Aside from all the regular features of a street fair there was a balloon ascension in the morning that was said to be one of the finest ever given in Rock county. A second one was to be given in the afternoon, but was postponed because of the rain. Then came the Eagles of Janesville and the Clinton ball teams and they gave the audience, which was critical and impartial in their rooting, a fine exhibition of ball. The Eagles won by a score of five to three in an exciting finish. The dinners served met the expectations of the visitors and when the races were called in the afternoon the best natured crowd possible watched the judges, C. S. Putnam of Janesville, T. B. Earle of Edgerton and Mr. Miller of Stoughton, decide the winners of the various heats with interest.

The Races.
Horses from Milwaukee, Madison, Janesville, Stoughton and Edgerton competed in the heats which were not finished owing to the rain setting in towards the end of the day's pleasure. There were actually thirty nine hundred paid admissions to the grounds, three hundred more than last year and it is estimated that a crowd of five thousand persons witnessed the ball game and races. Great praise is given the management of the picnic for the able manner in which everything was handled and the royal entertainment given the visitors. Nearly three hundred from Janesville were present and Stoughton, Madison, Evansville and Beloit all had large representation. The result of the races for the first two heats is as follows:

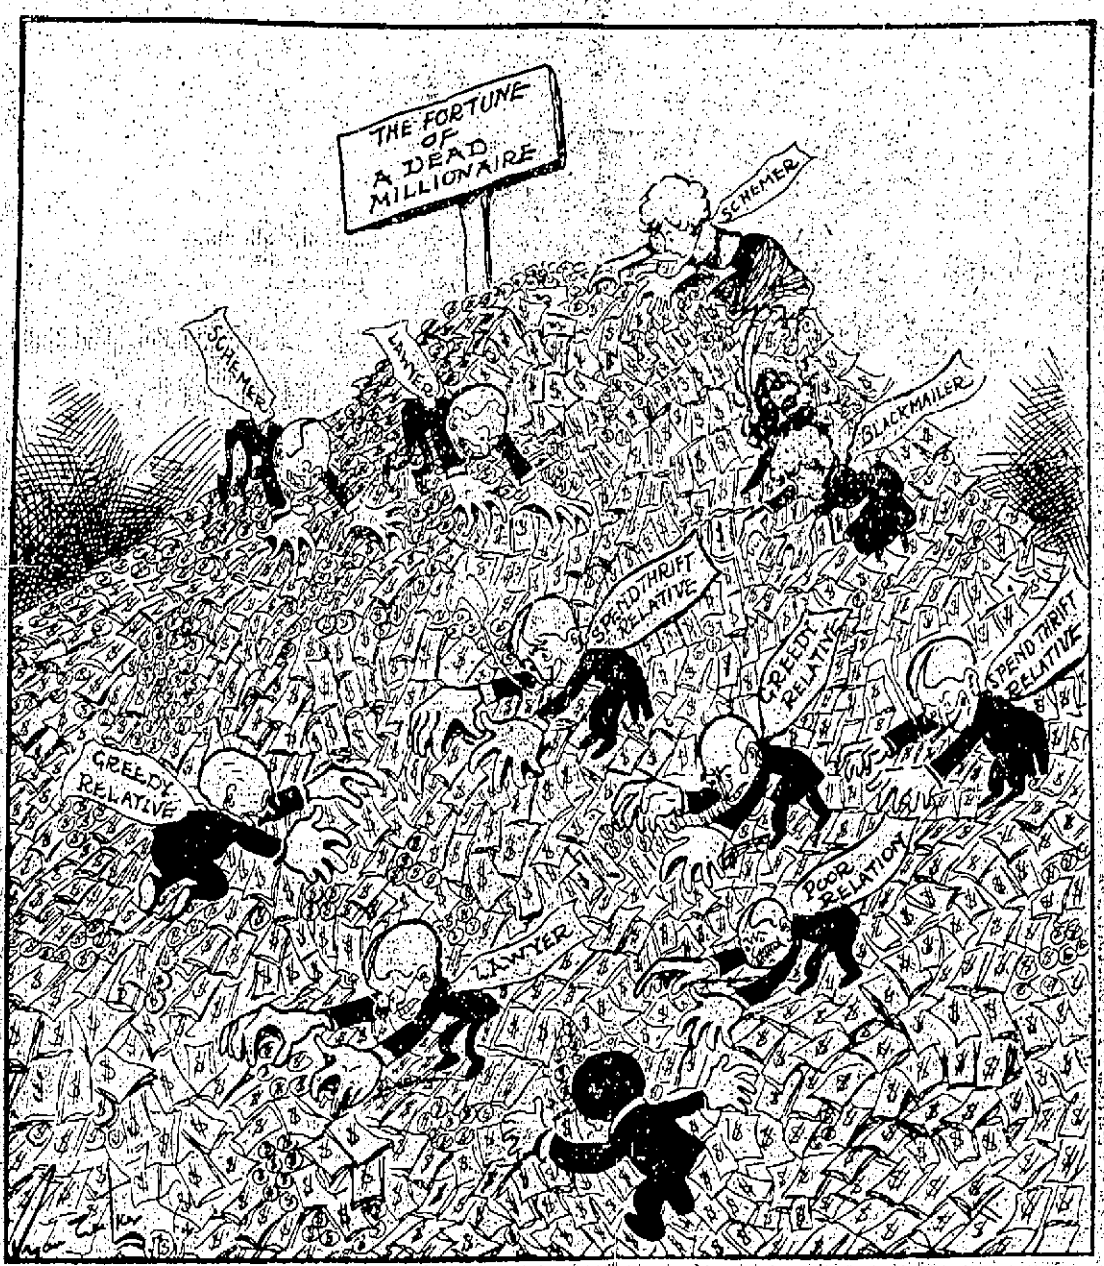

Dan Scully, Milwaukee.....	5-4
Pat Crowe, Koshkonong.....	1-1
Dr. L. Janesville.....	2-3
Nigger, Edgerton.....	4-5
Argyle, Oke, Edgerton.....	3-2

Irish Elder, Milwaukee.....	4-4
Poquette, Stoughton.....	2-3

At the coronation Mr. Scrymgeour-Wedderburn carried the standard, his claim having been sustained by the court of claims. The Earl of Lauderdale, however, has now brought an action in support of his claims, and the case soon will be tried before the Edinburgh court of session.

WANT LARGER SUMS IN THE DIVIDENDS

Wells-Fargo Express Company Stockholders Are Not Satisfied With Returns.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, Aug. 9.—If the reports that have been circulated in the financial district for the past month or more are to be relied upon a bitter fight for the control of the Wells-Fargo Express company may be expected at the company's annual meeting called for today. The present management of the company, which is said to be dominated by E. H. Harriman, has been busy scurrying around for proxies and at the same time issuing statements intended to justify the policy pursued in the management of the company's affairs. The minority stockholders, on the other hand, have shown themselves equally active and have evidence of an intention to "show up" the present management and to wrest the control from them if possible. The company's surplus is said to have grown to over $12,000,000, and the minority holders believe that some of this should be disbursed among them in the way of an extra dividend instead of being, as they declare to be the intention of the directors, turned over to Harriman's Union Pacific Railroad in return for an exclusive contract for the express privileges of that line.

OLD MEN WHO ARE IN UNITED STATES SENATE

Maryland's Representative In The Upper House Is Eighty-Two Years Of Age.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—United States Senator William Pinkney Whyte, who has often been called the "Grand Old Man of Maryland," was 82 years old today, he having been born in Baltimore, August 9, 1824. While Senator Whyte has long since passed the allotted three-score-and-ten, he bears the weight of years well. There is nothing in his appearance, except his whitened locks, to indicate the man at 82. His physical condition is excellent and those who have looked horns with him in the law courts in the past few years have every reason to believe that the Oyster theory in Senator Whyte's case is woefully inoperative.
"This is an age of young men" is a maxim that has been repeated for so many generations that one is almost surprised at the long list of men who, like Senator Whyte, have passed the allotted span of life and are still very vigorous and active.
Every state affords some examples of these venerable men and they are to be found in all business, professional and public pursuits.
In the United States senate there are two members older than Senator Whyte. The venerable senior senator from Alabama, Edmund W. Pettus, only last month passed his 85th birthday, having been born July 6, 1821. And the other senator from Alabama, John T. Morgan, is nearly as old, having been born June 29, 1824, making him 82 years old, and he is one of the most vigorous men in public life today. Senator Allison of Iowa, the dean of the senate, will be 80 upon the expiration of his present term two years hence. Senator Culom of Illinois is 77, Senator Frye of Maine 75, and Senator Platt of New York 73.
Henry G. Davis of West Virginia, the democratic candidate for vice president two years ago and who is still active in business, is 83 years old, having been born in 1823. More than twenty years ago he declined a re-election to the senate, although he was 63 years old at the time.

1906-7 SEASON AT MYERS THEATRE

of Miss Harriet Decker (daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Decker) reader; and others appeared here Feb. 22.
Under the direction of Della E.
Mayers of Washington, D. C., "The Story of the Reformation" with one hundred local people in the cast was presented on the nights of April 19, 20 and 21, the latter being a San Francisco benefit performance.
"The Upright," an English translation of Moliere's "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," was presented by the dramatic club of Sacred Heart College under Knights of Columbus auspices, April 28. Frances Ryan of this city had the role of "Dorimene."

NOTES AND COMMENT

Since Ada Rehan's appearance in
"The Taming of the Shrew," Jan. 20, 1905, no Shakespearean play has been presented in Janesville. Robert Mantel in "Richard III" was booked for Oct. 23, last, but the date was cancelled owing to the decision of his management to take him to New York for an indefinite run.

A large number of the notable plays brought here last season were under the management of the Shuberts.
E. H. Sothern, who was last seen here in "The Proud Prince," March 16, 1904, and Julia Marlowe are under their banner this season.

H. Reeves Smith, who supported
Grace George, is to be leading man for Lillian Russell in "Barbara's Millions."

ville, when he emerges in Geo. M.
Cohan's new play "Popularity" at Rochester, Sept. 3.

Margaret Anglin may be seen this season in Sardou's latest comedy
"La Fille du Regiment," which has shocked and amused Paris this summer.

Wilton Lackaye will begin his tour for 1906-7 in St. Louis, Sept. 9, presented his own dramatization of certain episodes in Hugo's "Les Miserables," under the title of "The Law and the Man." The performance was given its premiere in New Haven
some weeks ago.

Charles Richman, who played opposite to Ada Rehan on the occasion of her appearance here, has the part of "Vincent Adams" in Marguerite Merlington's play "The Daughters of Man."

Jane Peyton of the "Heir to the Floor" company has been offered a leading role in the dramatization of Rex Beach's novel, "The Spoilers."

Alfred Fischer is to have the leading role in "Honor Bright," a new comedy by Grace Livingston Furniss.
Miss Fola La Follette will also be a member of the company.

"The Vinegar Buyer," Dec. 4, 1903, is to have as his vehicle this season a play entitled "Swell, Elegant Jones."

Henry E. Dixey is to have two plays this season—his old vehicle,
"The Man in the Box," and "Richard the Brazen," a dramatization of Cyrus Townsend Brady's story.

Raymond Hitchcock, last seen here in "The Yankee Consul," April 18, 1905, will continue this season as the star of Richard Harding Davis' "The Gallopers." He has written a play for his wife, Flora Zabelle, and Gus Luders is to supply the music.

in a farce comedy by Richard Walton titled "The Strenuous Life." The James T. Powers is to star in "The Blue Moon," an English musical comedy, under the direction of the Shuberts.

Cecilia Loftus, who was with E.
H. Sothern in "The Proud Prince,"
is to be with Joe Weber's All Star
Co. this season.

Thomas Q. Seabrooke, last seen here in "The Billionaire," Nov. 17, 1904, is the leading comedian in

PEACE AND PROSPERITY

It is a gratifying sign of the times that more attention is being given to the work of the peace congress which is now in session at London for the fourteenth time, under the name of the Interparliamentary Union. At this critical time, when the parliamentary principle is passing through a crucial stage in Russia, the western nations find in the parliament one of the essential agencies of popular welfare. Though this peace parliament is entirely voluntary, it embodies the idea of international representation as a means of finding the bases along which nations may cooperate for the elimination of the causes of war and the guaranteeing of peace.

The personnel of the representatives at the London peace conference is sufficient to command the seriousness and sanity of its aim. The presence of such leaders of the people as the British premier, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, who is a well-known advocate of international peace, of Count Apponyi of Hungary, who has done so much for the industrial upbuilding of his country, of Herr Von Plessner, the Austrian minister of commerce, of Prince Hilko, the railway genius of Russia, and the two American members of the House of Representatives, Mr. Bartholdt of Missouri, and T. E. Burton of Ohio, gives the stamp of high character to their deliberations.

The results of this conference will show themselves in better understanding among the nations, in discrimination between the incidental and essential questions of international dispute, and the improvement of the machinery of diplomatic settlement of disputes. The removal of the possibilities of war will go far toward enhancing the welfare of all the nations concerned, and every branch of economic and moral interests must rejoice at the excellent work which the peace congress is accomplishing for permanent prosperity.

GROWTH OF THE BRITISH PARLIAMENT

It has often been commented upon as singular that the textbook for the United States on its own constitution was written by a Scotsman, Bryce, while the first and perhaps best analysis of the British constitution was written by a Frenchman, De Lolme, and is still an English university textbook. Bryce had the easier task because the English constitution is really the spirit of a great number of concessions to popular freedom secured from reluctant kings, and of institutions apparently cumbersome and antiquated, which yet managed to perform a wonderful amount of work in a very creditable manner. Of these the British Parliament.

With the new peers created this year, the membership of the House of Lords rises to 600, or only 70 less than that of the House of Commons. These proportions are closer than they have ever been before. The parliament of Henry VIII. outnumbered the Lords five to one, and those of Elizabeth and James I. six to one. The numbers grew in both instances view of the gradually broadening democracy. It is curious to notice that the peers multiplied faster than the popular representatives. In 1602 there were sixty-nine peers and 402 members of parliament. A hundred years afterwards there were 210 peers and 553 commoners; while in less than two hundred years the number of peers has increased 180 per cent, and the membership of the House of Commons has only increased 20 per cent.

The hereditary principle is like advanced German music, in the sense of being better than it sounds. Theoretically the House of Lords should have grown in importance with increasing numbers, but practically it has done nothing of the kind. The creation of new peers in fact has given it a much more popular character than it enjoyed in the times of the Stuarts. At least 40 per cent of the peerages are creations of the nineteenth century, and a very large proportion, including all the law peers constituting the supreme court of the kingdom, all creations of the past twenty-five years.

One of the reasonable certainties of British politics is that the Lords and Commons will clash some time in the near future. The majority of peers opposed to the liberal government is overwhelming. On the education bill, the land tenure bill, conceding the tenant a right in improvements, and the Trades unions legislation, practically annulling the House of Lords' decision as to the liability of trades unions for damages, that body is certain to amend in a way what the government cannot possibly accept.

This does not mean a general election this year but it may involve one in the autumn of 1907. Abolition of the House of Lords would not be a bad cry to go to the country with. On the other hand, it should be remembered that the Lords have never maintained a position in the face of a real popular movement. They certainly would reject or amend everything the liberal government puts through, if only for their own sakes. The average of intelligence among the peers is as high as that of the House of Commons, class for class, and the peers have privileges too valuable to risk if it comes to a fight.

The Beloit Free Press has virtuous indignation over any reference to Congressman Cooper that is not flattering. When Cooper first entered the field of politics it was the Gazette that brought him out, and supported him in his fight against the Free Press editor, one of the Poor Bats of Rock county politics at that time. Memory is treacherous when a postoffice job is in sight.

When Dowd gets the Beloit post office there will be two papers in Beloit there will not be quite as enthusiastic as they were for Cooper. The moment the Senator dictator of state politics cracked his whip and word went out he had officially backed Lenroot, they hopped into line as puppets do when the man behind the curtain pulls the string.

Rock county will probably give Davidson a larger majority than any other republican candidate ever received. Sentiment appears to be turning in his favor day by day and men who formerly believed every word uttered by the "Little Czar" are now indignant at his mixing in state affairs.

It would appear that Uncle Sam knew what he was doing when he decided to send Root and Taft out on junketing trips this summer. Both have been well received wherever they have appeared.

Janesville had a taste of rain with a vengeance last evening and hundreds of roofs leaked and the damage done can only be estimated to the streets and crops.

Davidson and Connor are still hard at work sorting out the sheep from the goats, so that when September 4th comes the proper animals can be driven into the feeding pen.

One Milwaukee paper suggests that the reason why La Follette favors Lenroot is because he is a vegetarian and the word "Root" appeals to him.

PRESS COMMENT.

His Own Fish Nibble Gingerly. Milwaukee News. It looks as if Bunco Bob has got the wrong bait on his hook this time.

A Net Artist. Milwaukee Journal. Hering, the acknowledged Chicago bank cashier, was no fish. He was a fisherman and suckers were running.

Too Much to Expect. Chicago Tribune. Why should a woman of Sarah Bernhardt's commanding genius be expected to do so commonplace a thing as pay her debts?

Jeering at Art Purity Crank. Chicago Record-Herald. In four months from now most of our trees will be naked, unless Anthony Comstock keeps pretty busy in the meantime.

Rising Chautauqua Star. Madison Democrat. If Dietz can only hold the fort till the martyr stage is reached, and survive, he'll be right in line for Chautauqua fame.

New York Rounder Defined. El Paso Herald. Take the mind and morals of a tomcat and the wealth of a Croesus, and you have the complete equipment of a gilded New York rounder.

Those Who Trust Him Lose. Chicago News. Find a defaulting bank cashier and usually you find a man who has been speculating. Whether he prefers the stock market or the races is all one.

His Savings on Hair Cuts. Milwaukee Journal. Uncle Russell Sage always had his coachman cut his hair, says a current paragraph, and it saved him at least $1,500, if he compounded the money. Figure it out yourself. He was 90 years old.

Mis Only Fair. Florence Mining News. The Madison Journal suggests it will be a new experience for Senator La Follette to play the part of Man Friday for his friend, Lenroot. Even so, however, it would be nothing more than a case of turn about.

Politician, But a Decent One. Waupaca Post. Whatever else can be said of him, Gov. Davidson cannot be accused of injecting politics into every address which he makes at meetings of social or business organizations. He is a politician, all right, but believes in being decent.

Faithful Have Their Orders. Milwaukee Journal. Senator McGillivray says that James O. Davidson is "entitled to another term." But man alive, hasn't La Follette told you that James O. Davidson must not have another term? What's the primary election law among friends?

And It's a Good Tonic. Ohio State Journal. There is no subject talked so much about in this country as baseball. There is nothing that is so much read about. War extras in the days of the rebellion were not more eagerly snatched up than baseball news of today. It is the diet of millions of people who think or talk about little else.

Wants New Law Repealed. Racine Journal. A new state law gives without price or any trouble to all railroad companies the right to use all public roads and highways. Municipalities do not need to be asked for franchises. The law should be repealed next session.

Keep on Experimenting. Chicago Record-Herald. A Jeffersonville, Ind., girl who several months ago wrote her name and address on a piece of paper which she slipped into the pocket of an army blouse that she was making has just been married to a soldier. Let the anxious girl who has carved her name and address on a watermelon continue to hope.

Few Brave in Face of Death. Evening Wisconsin. The stories concerning the desperate coverdops of some of the victims of the Serio wreck harmonize with experiences wherever brought face to face with death. Such heroism as was displayed by the British troopers on the Bismarck, who went down at "attention" is rarely equalled.

Hits Very Few Saloons. Madison Journal. It appears that Wisconsin's new law designed to crowd saloons away from the vicinity of churches is not so sweeping after all. The original bill made the limit between saloons and churches 200 feet, but a compromise was made on 400 feet, and to effect only churches which had a parochial school in connection, so comparatively few saloons will have to move.

No Sympathy For Kansas City. Chicago News. Kansas City, Kas., faces bankruptcy now that the lid has been flung neatly over its protecting head. It was not because that enterprising Kansas town made the snowflakes of its wide-openness made the snowflakes of its blizzards. It was because it had entered into a wicked partnership with vice to have the latter pay the city's expenses. The suffering community will get no sympathy from those cities that have been raising money for their current expenses by legitimate means.

Too Much Psychology. Chicago Chronicle. Mrs. Humphry Ward is coming to the United States to lecture and her advance press agent is already supplying the newspapers with information respecting her exclusiveness in a social way. It seems, however, that Mrs. Ward is willing to abate her exclusiveness in order to gather in the American dollar. She will sacrifice her feelings to her appreciation of the box-office receipts and place herself on exhibition. Let us hope that Mrs. Ward's lecture will be an improvement upon her novels, which are the dreariest, stupidest books in the world.

Col. Bouck's Faulty Will. Superior Telegram. Col. Bouck, of Oshkosh, died a couple of years ago, leaving an estate valued at several hundred thousand dollars, which he had accumulated in the practice of his profession as a lawyer. Besides the estate he also left a will which designated the distribution of the money and property. But Col. Bouck with all his ability and learning as a lawyer could not make a will that was beyond attack. This will has been in the courts ever since its maker's death and the estate has been practically absorbed by the lawyers. As far as the heirs are concerned the colonel might as well have had no estate.

Political Nuisances. Winnebago Local. The village is illuminated, decorated, embellished, adorned and ornamented, outside and in, with portraits, pictures, likenesses, and similitudes of candidates for support at the primary election. Walls, windows, poles, posts, corners, cases, and every convenient spot is occupied, and one of the lake corners attempted to find space for his picture on the stone hitching post in front of Hawksworth's restaurant, and remarked with disappointment, that he never saw hickory bark too hard for a tack, when they refused to enter the imitation carving and he was again disappointed by an old lady who objected to his driving tracks in her washing machine which set outside.

Is a Mean Crown Prince. Anaconda Standard. For an indefinite period there is to be neither marrying or giving in marriage in Korea. The bereaved crown prince of the kingdom is looking for a suitable young woman to succeed his late, lamented spouse. He has been a widow, or for a little more than a year and his counselors have been urging that it is high time he got busy and made the necessary arrangements for perpetuating his line. But the crown prince has been provokingly indifferent. The other day one of his advisers suggested that this delay might result in the woman most desirable marrying somebody else. It was believed that his happy thought would hasten the action of the prince. But it didn't. He realized the force of the suggestion, and to prevent any such possibility he brought about a decree that there shall be no wedding in Korea until he has been married. That crown prince must be a mean fellow anyway.

CAUSE OF FALLING HAIR. Dandruff, which is a germ disease—Kill the Germ. Falling hair is caused by dandruff, which is a germ disease. The germ burrowing into the root of the hair, where it destroys the vitality of the hair, causing the hair to fall out, digs up the cuticle in little scales, called dandruff or scurf. Without curing the dandruff, and you can't cure the dandruff without killing the dandruff germ. Destroy the cause, you remove the effect. Newbro's Herpicide is the only hair preparation that kills the dandruff germ. Herpicide is also a delightful hair dressing. Sold by leading druggists. Send the stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

LINK AND PIN

Marvin Hughitt
Marvin Hughitt, one of the foremost railroad executives of America, was born Aug. 9, 1837, on a farm in Cayuga county, New York. He is essentially a self-made man, having begun his business career without any extraneous aids. As a lad, he left home and struck out for himself. At Auburn, N. Y., he entered a telegraph office and, his pertinacity asserting itself, he soon became an expert operator, being one of the first to receive telegraph messages by sound. At seventeen, having acquired considerable skill, he went west, and in 1854 he entered the employ of the Illinois and Mississippi Telegraph company in Chicago. His first railroad work was for what is now the Chicago & Alton road. From the position of operator for this road he advanced steadily upward, leaving the Alton to accept a better position with the Illinois Central, leaving that in turn to become assistant general manager of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. Later he was the general manager of the Pullman Car Service company, which position he left to go with the North-Western railroad, to the presidency of which he was unanimously elected in 1887.

HARD TASK FOR RASTUS.

Small Wonder He Had Found It Difficult to Join This Particular Church.

At a dinner which was attended by a number of clergymen, President Buckingham, of the University of Vermont, told the following of Bishop Hall, of the Episcopal diocese of Vermont. In response to some good-natured chaff about the liberal views of the Congregational church and the ease with which almost anybody could join it, "He said he had heard of a negro who had many times applied for membership in St. Paul's church at Burlington, but had not been able to satisfy the bishop that his state of mind entitled him to admission. The negro had been advised to pray that his spiritual condition might improve. After doing so, he made a new application. The bishop said to him: 'Well, Rastus, have you prayed as I told you to?' 'Yes, indeed, suh; I done prayed an' I done tole de Lawd I wants jine St. Paul's chu'ch an' de Lawd he say to me: 'Good luck, 'Rastus; I been tryin' jine dat chu'ch fo' 20 years mahsef.'"

LIFE AND DEATH ALIKE.

Young Man at Least Thought There Was Mighty Little Difference in That Quiet Town.

There is in California a village noted for its quiet, restful atmosphere where the rush and clamor of business never intrudes and where the commuter never rushes for his train, or anybody is ever in a hurry. And the climate even seems to proclaim serenity for spring, summer, autumn and winter follow each other with but little change in temperature. To this peaceful village came a man advanced in years to pass the evening of life in rest and quiet. In the course of time came a nephew to visit him, and to him, who was so young and active, the place seemed dull. He said: "Uncle, why did you choose such a place to live in?" "Oh," said the uncle, "I thought this would be a good place to live in, and a good place to die in." "But how will you know when you are dead?" said the nephew.

Too Great an Innovation.

With upraised hands the manager of the great hotel shakes his head. Nevertheless, the man in front of him argues. The manager calls his superintendent, and the superintendent calls the chef and the chef calls the head waiter. The manager repeats his argument, the chef and the head waiter, all with upraised hands and upturned eyebrows, shake their heads decisively. And the man at last, with a despairing sigh, goes out. "What was the matter with that fellow?" asks an innocent bystander. "Astounding!" replies the manager, the superintendent, the chef and the head waiter in one voice. "He wants to give a banquet, and he insists that there shall not be a course consisting of fillet of beef with mushroom sauce."

Defended on Providence.

A gentleman in the south was passing a potato patch and stopped to speak to a darkey who was leaning lazily on his hoe. "Howdy, uncle. How are you feeling?" "Oh, I feel mighty fine, 'caze I sho has been 'havin' good luck." "Is that so?" "Yas, sah, why, 'bout a week ago I had a lot of trees to cut down, an' a cyclone come erlong an' jes' natchly 'knocked 'em ovah' fo' me." "Well, that is wonderful." "It sho is, but Providence done helps me agin yestiddy. Massa tole me to burn up de 'strawstacks' an' heah come de lightning' an' fo' I knowed it they wait 'fothin' left." "Well, Well! But what are you doing now?" "Me? Ise waitin' fo' a yethquake to shake dese 'taters outen de ground'."

Wise Words of Justice Harlan.

"If I should be asked what is the greatest thing in the world," said Justice Harlan, of the United States supreme court, "I should be inclined to say it is the saving grace of knowing one's own business and keeping to it. I have seen a good deal of life, and I rarely know it to fall—that the man who can draw the line between what concerns him and what does not is the great savior for most of the evils the flesh is heir to. If I am ever guilty of asking a man to talk to me about himself, I hope some of my friends will take the cue and put me out of harm's way."

Good blood, good health; bad blood, bad health; there you have it. Why not help nature just a little and change the bad to the good? Bad blood to good blood; poor blood to rich blood. Ask your doctor how this applies to Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and how it applies to you! Could anything be more fair?

Stop scratching matches on the wall. You not only spoil the wall paper, but run the risk of setting the house on fire. But as long as you use gas or oil you have got to use matches.

Electricity is the only "matchless light"—a touch of the button does it. There are many other advantages. Let us tell you them.

A Daily Thought.

Thoughtful people have doubts, but doubts ought not to be the sum total in life. Doubts ought to be like clouds that by and by are swept from the sky. We have got to have sun, up and sunlight, and the blanketing of the clouds must some time be torn away, and the sunlight must get at the flowers of the world, lest the flowers fall to bloom and exhale perfume to the sky.—William A. WORST RAIN STORM IN 20 YEARS; DOES THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS' OF DAMAGE

In The City Of Janesville And Outlying Country--$10,000 Washout On Washington Street--Warehouses And Private Houses Flooded And Crops Ruined--Street Car Line And Water-Works System Crippled--Part Of Afton Dam Gave Way.

Janesville and vicinity was visited late yesterday afternoon by the most severe and destructive rain-storm in twenty years. The downpour set in about half past five o'clock and continued with occasional brief cessations until after ten in the evening. Damage which will necessitate expenditure of thousands of dollars to repair was done right in the heart of the city. That section of Washington street built up on a bluff of loose soil and located between the Linden avenue intersection and a point about a hundred feet distant from the High land avenue intersection gave way to the immense volume of water which came down from the slopes and was washed into the river by way of the Lovejoy ravine. When the report spread last evening that two hundred feet of Washington street had caved in to a depth of thirty feet, that curbing and cement walls had been undermined and collapsed, and that the new made gully was large enough to hold the Hayes block citizens were incredulous. But a visit to the scene convinced the most skeptical that there was little exaggeration in the stories. Within thirty feet of the front porch of William Garbutt's residence the earth has suddenly dropped to a sheer depth of ten yards. Seventy feet of the newly made Linden avenue thoroughfare washed out to a depth of ten feet and telephone poles as well as the cement walls sunk into the newly made ravine. Street car traffic to the cemetery may be delayed for weeks as the washout on Washington street embraces the full width of that highway in places and the tracks have collapsed or are without support. Water and gas mains were also destroyed and after two hours' effort, the water was shut off at Mineral Point avenue and Washington street last evening, so that all the first ward north of Mineral Point avenue is cut off from the supply.

Cause Of The Deluge.
That large area of land lying south and west of the cemetery was formerly drained across the Woodruff farm and southward to the river at Monterey or eastward to the river via the Mole culvert. In the grading work that has been in progress for late years an effort has been made to divert a portion of the flow to Magnolia avenue. The water coming down this highway, providing it is too great in volume for the culvert on the north side to handle must turn a right angle onto Washington street if it is to follow the gutter lines, which of course it does not in the case of a heavy flow. As a consequence there is a washout of varying dimensions in store for Washington street every time there is a big storm. It has been regarded as cheaper and therefore more expedient to permit this gradual washing away of the thoroughfare than to acquire a right of way and make adequate preparations for the great volume of water which the hills are ready to throw down toward the center of the city in any emergency. A consulting engineer who viewed the premises this morning said that he would not undertake to properly repair the damage on Washington street and Linden avenue for $10,000.

Big Losses At Warehouses.
From $1,000 to $1,200 damage was done at the lead tobacco warehouse of Thomas B. Welsh on West Milwaukee street near the railroad tracks. The basement containing a large quantity of the most valuable tobacco was filled with water to a depth of five or six feet. Chief Klein took the steam fire engine there to pump out this forenoon and had a call for aid at Schaller & McKee's place across the way as soon as the work should be finished. The flood is even with the floors in the Madison house.

It will probably be two months before the front of the structure is completed.

REV. DENISON HAD VERY PLEASANT OCEAN VOYAGE.

And Was Given a Warm Welcome by the Congregation of Dundee, Scotland.

Several local friends of Rev. Robert C. Denison have received word from him announcing his safe arrival in Dundee, Scotland, and some details of the hearty reception tendered him by the church members. He was to have preached his first sermon there last Sunday. The trip across the Atlantic proved a very delightful one and Rev. Denison will undoubtedly have the opportunity to visit a number of interesting places before the time arrives for his homeward voyage. A reception will be given in the church parlors upon his return.

and has undoubtedly done great damage there. The Soullman leaf warehouse is filled with water and no estimate of the loss can be made. The lake in the vicinity of the Five Points had an area of nearly a block. River street was also badly flooded. Washout On South Main.

Great damage was done to the road near the Boub Brewing Company plant at the foot of south Main street. The dirt at the top of the hill was washed to the bottom, covering the street car track with sand and stones to such a depth that the cars were unable to go over the track today. But as luck would have it the cars were all up town so traffic has not been delayed today. The pit left there is four or five feet deep and twenty feet in width, leaving the track and ties suspended in the air.

In Various Parts Of City.
The road at the south end of the Monterey bridge was washed to a considerable depth, between the stone pit on one side and the river on the other. The hard stone and gravel of which this road was built could not withstand the heavy torrents of water.

Several cellars about the city were filled to a considerable depth. The basement of Mrs. Mary Carter's home at the upper end of Racine street was filled to a depth of six feet, the water coming up to the sills of the windows.

Nearly all the culverts along Main street were stopped up by the large quantities of muck which came down the hills. Sand and large stones were washed upon Main street and the slide itself was in a very bad condition. Racine street in particular is well "skinned."

At Chautauqua Grounds.
At the Chautauqua grounds the water washed down through the hollow taking the sand with it and clogging the roadway under the railroad tracks used in "dry times" as an entrance way to the grounds, so completely that the draymen going after their loads were forced to work several hours with the shovel in order to gain admittance.

Several of the private tents were stored in the stone arched way and these were considerably damaged.

New Doty Works Closed.
On account of the high water of the river the New Doty Works was compelled to close down last night at nine o'clock.

Prospect avenue in the second ward has a 2 foot ditch through its center and the other streets in this vicinity were relieved of their gravel and cement which formed the crust of the road way.

A Knickerbocker Ice Plant.
At the Knickerbocker Ice Co.'s 60 foot pit east of the city the immense pumping engine and a carload of gravel were so completely buried under the sand, washed in by the torrent, that only a foot and a half of the engine's funnel was visible this morning.

Base Creek On Rampage.
Base Creek which drains the Evansville marsh went on a big rampage carrying out hundreds of the gristmill dam at Afton. The flat country east of the village is under water and likewise the marsh on the west. On the south the wagon roads are impassable and railroad connections are reported cut off by washouts.

Crops Badly Damaged.
From many sections of Rock county reports of damage to standing grain and the tobacco crop have been received. L. M. Mercereau who made a trip through the country this morning states that a slight fall of hail in several sections did considerable damage and that much tobacco was beaten down by the rain and is under water.

During the Storm Last Evening and Structure Was Partially Consumed by Fire--Three Horses Killed.

In the electrical storm last evening the barn on the Joe Day farm in the town of La Prairie was struck by lightning and two horses were killed outright. Another could not be rescued and was burned up in the fire which partially destroyed the structure and a fourth one was injured and is being attended to by Veterinary Brown today. It is understood that valuable produce and implements also went up in smoke. The farm is operated by Rollin Day, a son of the owner.

On investigation he found the condition of the street, and he congratulated himself as can those who were in the carriage from their narrow escape.

LA FOLLETTE WILL DICTATE VOTES

IS TO TELL THEM TO VOTE FOR LENROOT.

IS TO SPEAK IN JANESVILLE

Opera House Engaged For a Week From Saturday Night by V. P. Richardson for Senator.

It was announced today by Victor P. Richardson, Lenroot's campaign manager for Rock County, Senator La Follette will deliver an address at the Myers Grand Opera house, a week from this coming Saturday night. While the subject of his discourse will not be made public, for the present it is probable that the senator will attempt to instruct the voters of Janesville how they shall cast their ballot at the coming primaries.

Is Interesting.
It is interesting to note at this time that two years ago probably the same audience that will hear him speak heard him talk in his own behalf at the opera house and heard him denounce the federal officeholders who deserted Washington to do exactly what he is now doing--campaigning in the interest of candidates. Doubtless his address will be full of stirring appeals for voters to support Lenroot and he may be moved to say something in defense of Congressman Cooper whose candidacy Thos. S. Nolan of this city is earnestly contesting.

Means War to Knife.
Senator La Follette's appearance in Janesville means only one thing. He will wage war upon Davidson. Cooper, in fact upon everyone who opposes his desire to have Lenroot nominated. Rock county is normally conservative and it will take more than Senator La Follette's moral suasion to turn the tables against Governor Davidson. The coupling of Lenroot's name with that of Cooper can not do the congressman any good as the question of the Philippine tariff is the vital one in this district and not one of state politics. Cooper is not in good standing in congress itself and the support that Senator La Follette may give him will be interesting to note owing to the complete turn-around he was given by the republican congressman just before they closed.

KICKERS' KOLUM.

Janesville, August 8.
Editors Paper: Many of us were pleased when you commenced to agitate the question of a "Band Stand" and even more so when we saw the coming of a large number of business men signing a request to the Common Council to have one built. Two meetings have now passed and no notice has been taken of it. Many of us looked at the items to see what was done. Is it not the business of the City Clerk to present these matters? I have not paid much attention to these matters before, but now the question comes to me how many more of these things have been ignored by the Council, do they drop matters this way? Was it a real petition that went before them, and were the signers business and professional men as stated? If it was theirs, I would ask them to see why the matter was not placed on the records. I am told that quite a number of the signers are going to ask some questions about this. Is the paper on record and can a citizen see it? Don't call your column "Kickers' Kolum" but head it "Bureau of Investigation."

Yours for music,
A FRIEND OF THE BAND.

APPENDICITIS.

Appendicitis must be the subject of this lecture, and I can assure you it is not from choice. Of late I have had a great many letters asking for advice regarding the home treatment of the disease, and if I thought surgery always necessary. The second question is easy, and may be answered with an emphatic no, but to answer the former question is no mean task. Nearly all medical books that have been published in recent years contain elaborate descriptions and minute directions for the treatment, nearly all of which is where to cut, when to cut, how to cut, and in some books how many times to cut. In fact, some do not recognize any method of cure but a surgical method. Now if they should take the view of a St. Louis physician, I. e., that all kinds of sickness that could be cured without medicine were surgical cases, then possibly people who think that an operation is the only cure for appendicitis are correct. I, however, beg leave to differ, although I admit that there are cases in which an operation is necessary, but they are few.

What Appendicitis is. — In the first place, what is appendicitis? In the simplest form that I can express it, I would say that it is an inflammation of the mucous lining of the vermiform appendix, commencing as a catarrhal inflammation, and extending sometimes to other parts, and sometimes confining itself to the vermiform appendix, but advancing to such a degree that destruction of the parts takes place, causing perforation and gangrene. I presume I might fill half a column with long names which would be meaningless, so what is the use? You know what I mean when I say that inflammation has so far advanced that a hole has been made through the little sack called the appendix, and allows pus or fecal matter to pass into the abdominal cavity. Now, while such a condition is quite serious, it is not always fatal, if properly treated, even without an operation.

The appendix is situated on the right side of the abdomen at the end of the small intestine, just above the right groin. Just before the large intestine commences, there is an enlargement of the intestines called the caecum, and running out from this pouch-like enlargement is a small appendage, which on account of its wormlike appearance is called vermiform appendix. Some will contend this is a useless thing, but it is not. Through neglect, abuse, misuse, or accident, various organs of the body may become weak, sick, atrophied, or entirely destroyed, and still the person may live happily, but a decided change takes place. The voice and manner of a eunuch becomes womanish, while the voice and manner of a woman unsexed becomes, as a rule, coarse and manlike. A more striking object lesson is afforded in the ox, the weathers and the gelder horse. An all-wise Creator placed that little lubricating sack there for a purpose, and if man will observe the laws of nature, with regard to diet and exercise and avoid constipation and gluttony, the little thing will do its share of work faithfully throughout a long and useful life.

No Harm in Grape Seeds. — There is one thing about the appendix which I am tempted to tell you, but I have made it a rule to tell the simple plain facts and then, if you neglect my advice and suffer, I cannot be held responsible. It is seldom, if ever, that the dreaded grape seed is the cause of appendicitis. Now the terrible fear of the disease has caused many to adopt the proper and prudent plan of discharging the seeds of grapes and raisins. They should never be swallowed under any circumstances. They might cause the disease by irritation. Large quantities of them have been taken into the stomach at a time and being hard and indigestible, are hurried on by the instinctive action of the alimentary canal as soon as their nature is discovered. Nature soon notifies the brain that the colon should be evacuated, but no attention is paid to the notice. The efforts of the intestines grow feebler and feebler and at last cease. Then we have fecal impaction. At last the colon is partly filled, and when the ilio caecal valve opens to pass the contents of the small intestines into the large, there is found no room, and as that little valve is very sensitive, it at once closes and refuses to open for some time. More food is eaten and more waste is forced down until the little valve again tries to discharge its contents, but still no room has been made, and again it becomes closed, more tightly than before, and now the trouble begins. A little cold is taken, and the little pouch becomes heated, the inflammation extends to the little appendix, and it relaxes until some of the fecal matter is crowded into it. The symptoms which follow are nearly always the same.

Symptoms. — First of all will be a very sharp pain in the region just above the right groin, and intense suffering upon the pressure or movement. At that point examination will reveal tenderness, and soon, considerable swelling beneath which may be found an oval tumor, and the whole abdomen will become enlarged. The patient will be found on the right side material, having a fecal odor, the pupils are wide and frequent, the countenance distressed and the voice feeble.

If the appendix alone is inflamed there will be no fecal odor to the vom-ited material, and the swelling and tumor will be less pronounced, although the pain will be intense. The danger in these cases lies in the liability of suppuration and perforation into the abdominal cavity. Sometimes there may be suppuration and evacuation outward, or through the bowels, or the suppurative materials may be absorbed.

Injection Should Be Given. — If the inflammation is caused by accumulations of feces in the caecum, large injections of warm water or infusion of spearmint (three or four quarts in amount) should be given, and repeated if necessary until free evacuations are obtained. When inflammation of the appendix exists place over the affected region a large and hot mullein leaf poultice, containing considerable lobelia herb, and sprinkled lightly with ginger, and administer by the mouth teaspoonful doses of an infusion of lady slipper, one teaspoonful, and lobelia, half a teaspoonful, to a cup of boiling water every half hour. Sustain the strength by broths or malted milk or other liquid foods. Enjoin perfect quietude in bed, and move the bowels by injection, never using cathartics.

Men are more subjected to appendicitis than women. Children and old people are more liable to have it than persons in the prime of life. Persons who eat heartily after a long fast, or while the intestines are empty, after having used a cathartic, are subject to it, because the severe strain caused by the cathartic has weakened the canal throughout.

Avoid constipation, gluttony, and indigestible substances, drink plenty of water, and after a fast or cathartic eat sparingly of easily digested food, and don't be in a hurry to have an operation performed.

INTERESTING DOCUMENT.

Parchment Obtained in Mexico Showing Evidence of Extreme Age.

A New York lawyer who lately returned from Guadalajara has brought with him a document which, if authentic, is valuable beyond price. It was secured from a man in the Thieves Market, in Guadalajara, who was ignorant of its value and had no information to give concerning its history beyond the fact that he bought it from a woman about a year ago. It is a parchment showing evidence of extreme age and bears in Latin the sentence which was pronounced upon Jesus Christ by Pontius Pilate, which translated reads:

"I, Pontius Pilate, here in Jerusalem, regent of the Roman empire, judge and condemn to death Jesus, known as the poor Nazarene, and of the nation of Galilee, a seditious man, opposed to the law and to our Senate and the great Emperor Tiberius Caesar. And I determine that his death shall be upon the cross, fastened with nails, as is the custom with criminals. Because here join and congregate each day many men, rich and poor, who have not desisted to provoke tumult throughout Judea, proclaiming this man the Son of God and King of Israel, and threatening ruin to this noted city of Jerusalem and its temple and this sacred empire. And because he had refused tribute to Caesar, and has had the boldness to enter with palms of triumph, and a great multitude into the city of Jerusalem and into the sacred temple of Solomon."

"I therefore command the first centurion, named Quinto Cornelio, to remove from the city of Jerusalem this offender, putting upon him such robes as shall make him known to all, and the same cross on which he is to be crucified, and conducted through the streets between two robbers who also have been condemned to death for thefts and murders, in this manner making an example which all people and all criminals shall heed. And I further command that the public order shall proclaim his offenses as here expressed, and that after having traversed the public streets he shall be taken by the port of Pegora, now known as Antonina, to the mountain of Calvary, where it is the custom to execute all criminals. There he shall be crucified on the same cross that he has carried, and his body shall be left hanging between those of the two robbers. And above the cross, in the three languages which are now generally known—Hebrew, Greek and Latin—shall be placed the inscription: 'This is Jesus of Nazareth, King of the Jews, so that all may understand and that he shall be known to all.' And let no one, of whatever state or condition, under penalty of losing rights and life, dare to interfere with the execution of this sentence with full rigor as I have commanded, according to the Roman and Hebrew laws."

HOUSEBOAT A JAPANESE IDEA.

For Centuries Such Craft Have Been In Use On Their Rivers.

It seems probable that the houseboat originated in Japan. Whatever is the case, it is certain that for centuries the Japanese have had boats arranged for pleasure trips, wherein they might live at anchor or slowly float up and down the rivers. Such boats may be chartered by the hour or by the day, and a more alluring way of seeing Japanese country in cherry blossom season would be hard to find, says the Craftsman.

These pleasure boats are 30 or 40 feet long and 8 feet wide. They have a strongly built roof and sides of paper, screens, or shoji, with amado, or heavy wooden shutters that may be put up in time of rain. A party of a dozen or twenty can be very happy in one of these crafts when off on a day's pleasure, drifting up a narrow river with cherry petals blown in soft winds. There are no seats in the cabin, which occupies the greater part of the boat, but the floor is covered with dainty straw mats upon which to sit. If you fire of the cabin and wish a more extended view, sit quite will permit you to sit on the roof, where red blankets have been spread, and from this point of vantage the scenery may be enjoyed and the air.

MAMMOTH SALMON IN NORWAY.

Splendid Fish Taken from Preserved Rivers in Far North.

"It is fashionable," said a rich man, "to spend the summer in Norway. The Norwegian climate is superb, the scenery is grand and the living is cheap—$1 a day at the hotels, and carriages at half a dollar a day."

"One fine thing about Norway is that in the summer the night only lasts a couple of hours, and if you go as far as the North cape there is no night at all, but the sun circles round and round the horizon and never sinks below."

"The Norwegian rivers abound in fish, and anyone is free to angle for trout in them. The salmon rivers, though, are strictly preserved. Some of the salmon rivers are very fine, and rent for as much as $2,000 a year. I know a man who has a river only two miles long that he pays $1,800 for. He often gets fish of 60 or 70 pounds. The day I called on him last year his wife came in with a 50-pounder, a 22-pounder, and a 51-pounder that she had caught herself within three hours."

Curious Fear of Fresh Air.

People who were born and bred in the country and who still live there are as a rule curiously afraid of fresh air. From their living rooms, especially the "parlor," they rigidly exclude every approach of outdoor air except at housecleaning time, and they are more cautious still as to sleeping rooms. The farmers, in spite of their outdoor employment, suffer not a little from consumption. It seems a pity when these country dwellers might have their lungs filled with pure, fresh air day and night, sleeping or waking, that the polluted air they breathe at night should be allowed to offset the good effects obtained through the day's work in the field. If the enlightened visitors, paying guests and summer boarders who have learned that one's manner of life rather than one's place of living may be depended upon to prevent consumption would but circulate their knowledge in a practical way in country places their vacations would accomplish something besides a refreshing of their own health.—Boston Transcript.

Called.

The waning moon peeped through the old parlor window, but still he lingered. After a long silence his eyes roamed to the cuckoo clock above the sofa.

"Ah, darling," he whispered, "do you see that clock? Every hour the little bird comes out and says: 'Coo-coo.'"

The weary girl yawned.

"He will have a variation on the next call," she said, acridly.

"And what will the variation be, my love?"

"Skidoo."

"Without another word he took his hat and cane and disappeared in the dark night."

Millions Just To Be Clean

THE mammoth Pabst Brewery is a model of neatness that might well be taken as a pattern by other pure food manufacturers. Millions have been spent on the Pabst plant to make the manufacture of Pabst Beer absolutely clean, pure and wholesome.

Pabst Beer is not fermented in open vats as is usual in breweries—but in sealed tanks where no air but pure, filtered air can reach it.

Pabst Beer is not cooled in rooms where men walk in and out, but in specially constructed sealed coolers where no hands can touch it, no breath of foul air can taint it.

Pabst Beer is stored and aged only in specially constructed, hermetically sealed tanks that are kept pure and clean by rinsing only with filtered water. Absolutely no chance is taken for the slightest contamination by dirt, germs, or tainted air.

Pabst Beer, in addition to being the cleanest beer, is a pure beer—the most wholesome beer because made only from the "Pabst exclusive process eight-day malt," which retains all the rich nutrition—the strength and health building elements—of the barley, and the exclusive Pabst process of brewing with eight-day malt makes Pabst Blue Ribbon the perfect beer in age, purity and strength.

When Ordering Beer, call for Pabst Blue Ribbon.

His Lucky Number.

Sir Lawrence Alma-Tadema, the distinguished painter, is a strong believer in the luckiness of numbers. His lucky number is 17. His wife was 17 when he first met her; the number of the house to which he took her when they were married was 17; his present house bears the same number, and the first shade was put to the work of rebuilding it on August 17, 1886. It was November 17 that he and his family first took up their residence there.

The Blessing of Poverty.

The social reformer, after ordering a soda, addressed the shabby individual at the bar. "Ah, my friend," he said, "are you not aware that strong drink bitches like a serpent and stings like an adder?" The other held up his glass to the light. "This don't, friend," he said. "This is only cheap, watered stuff. I can't afford to buy the kind you refer to."
